1995 FIELD HOCKEY

UMB II.008

A New Chapter to a Proud Tradition

With a blend of both solid veterans and promising newcomers, the University of Maryland field hockey team charges into the 1995 season determined to continue the Terps' winning tradition.

Head Coach Missy Meharg has seen her team improve since 1994, and following a successful spring training, she sees excellent results ahead for this year's squad.

"I am excited because of the level of talent, combined with experience," she said. "After a year of improving, I am exceedingly optimistic about the team's ability this season."

Experience is a big asset for the Terps, as seniors Kristen Ketchum, Michelle Gallo and Hillary Sterner all return for their final year. Ketchum is a three year starter at the forward position, and is known for her speed, competitiveness and team leadership. Sterner can play any one of the six back positions. Gallo, another back, is hoping to rebound from a knee injury sustained last season. With the three of them healthy, Maryland not only has three quality players, but team leaders as well.

After only one year, sophomore midfielder Christine DeBow has already become one of the best offensive players in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Not only did she pile up 22 points (seven goals, eight assists) in 1994, but she was named to the All-ACC and All-ACC Tournament teams. DeBow returns as the Terps' leading scorer in 1995.

Other top scorers returning are junior forward Megan Callahan and sophomore back Sara Salam. Callahan scored seven goals last season and was nominated as an All-Regional All-American. This year, she returns as the scoring leader on the forward line.

Salam, meanwhile, scored four goals and was nominated for the All-ACC team in just her first season at Maryland. Despite playing in the backfield, she is a threat both offensively and defensively. She will be the team's cornerhitter when fouls are called on the opposition.

Another returning sophomore among the top Terp players is Sarah Rosenwinkel, who brings both speed and experience to the forward line. Having started all but three games in her first year, she is capable of outrunning any defender in possession of the ball. Nadine Bennett also returns for her second season and is expected to earn more playing time on the forward line.

At the sweeper position, junior Tricia Burdt comes off a season in which she was named an All-Regional All-American. Having played on the U.S. under-21 team this summer in Spain and in the recent Olympic Festival, Burdt returns for her junior season with plenty of high level playing experience. Having moved from the midfield, Burdt gives the Terps a big boost defensively.

In goal, the Terps lost All-American Irene Horvat to graduation, but in sophomore Alana Eliwatt, they have someone who is ready to step in and continue Maryland's strong goaltending tradition. Eliwatt was the backup to Horvat last season and in the games that she played, did not give up a goal. After a solid spring season, she is ready for the starting job.

Sophomore Lynsey McVicker and freshman Jennifer Pratt head the list of a strong group of newcomers to the Terps in 1995. McVicker arrives from Ireland having represented her country on the under-16, under-18 and under-21 squads during her career. At the forward position, she is expected to make an immediate impact in College Park.

Pratt, meanwhile, comes from New York having been an All-State player in both her junior and senior years in high school. She was a force both offensively and defensively. At Maryland, Pratt should compete for a starting position as a midfielder.

The Terps also have plenty of newcomers from the region, including midfielders Ellen Wolff and Mary McManus, forwards Katy Jo Heiser, Melissa Conaway and Emily Ward, and goalie Erin Flannagan. In addition, Danielle Danver transferred to College Park from William & Mary, and Sara Forbes comes over from the Terps' National Championship lacrosse team to bolster the backfield.

Katie Kauffman, who was an All-American back in 1994, will be in Atlanta this year, in hopes of making the 1996 Olympic team. She will return to the Terps next fall.

Several top ten teams are on the Terps' schedule this year, and the team will get a good indication of how they stack up against the best in the nation. Still, the Terps head into the 1995 season, figuring to be in the thick of the ACC race, as well as the national playoff hunt.

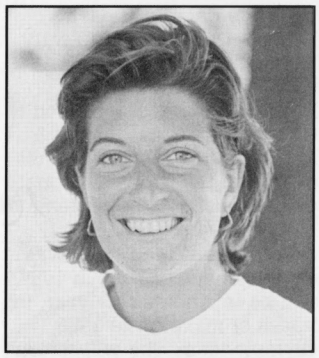
Head Coach, "Missy" Meharg



Margaret "Missy" Meharg

Head Coach

During the past seven years, Missy Meharg has coached the Maryland field hockey team to every accolade possible. From the ACC championship in 1992 to the NCAA title in 1993, the Terps have rolled up seven consecutive winning seasons since Meharg took over the team in 1988.

Through persistence, tenacity and enthusiasm, Meharg has helped cement the Terps' winning tradition. Her 96-45-9 record and .680 winning percentage are a tribute to the high energy and dedication she brings to the Maryland program.

Before accepting her current position, Meharg was the graduate assistant to Sue Tyler, who was the Terps' coach from 1974 until 1987. Prior to the 1988 campaign, Meharg accepted the head position and since then, she has escalated into one of the most renowned coaches in her sport.

- In 1991 and 1993, Meharg was selected as the NCAA Division I Coach of the Year. In addition, she has been named Mid-Atlantic Coach of the Year five times and Atlantic Coast Conference Coach of the Year in 1992.
- Presently, Meharg is head coach of the United States under-21 team, which competed in Spain this past summer. Three current Terrapin players (Kate Kauffman, Christine DeBow and Tricia Burdt) are all members of that team.
- Since January 1994, Meharg has been the assistant coach of the U.S. National Team. Having helped guide the team to a bronze medal at the 1994 World Cup (in Ireland) and a silver medal at the 1995 Pan-American Games (in Argentina), Meharg will assist the squad at next year's Olympics in Atlanta.
- This past June, Meharg was accepted into an international coaching course in Amsterdam, Holland as a representative for the United States. Having gathered advanced field hockey information, Meharg shared her findings at the United States Field Hockey Associations' (USFHA) most recent clinic, which was held here at the University of Maryland.

A 1985 graduate of the University of Delaware (where she earned her Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education), Meharg's playing career was as prolific as her current coaching career.

Besides being a two-time All-American in both field hockey and lacrosse, her list of accomplishments outside of Delaware is extensive.

- Five times, Meharg competed in the U.S. Olympic Festival.
- In 1987, she was an alternate on the Pan-American team (in Indianapolis) and the following year, she was an alternate on the Olympic team (in Seoul, South Korea).
- Meharg returned to the 1991 Pan-American team (in Cuba), this time as a starter.
- To cap off her playing career, Meharg was a member of the Olympic qualifying team for the 1992 Games (in Barcelona).

Besides coaching field hockey, Meharg continued her education, and in 1989, she earned her masters degree in sports psychology from the University of Maryland. In addition, she has been a color commentator for both NCAA and international field hockey competition and has co-hosted an ACC sports show on Home Team Sports with Johnny Holliday.

"I believe in self-accountability in the classroom and on the field. We are committed to hard work, while keeping it fun. Focus on the now, explore every possibility and take advantage of every opportunity."

Q and A with the Coach

What are your goals as the coach?

"Establish yearly team goals, which include winning the conference and an appearance in the NCAA Tournament, and then lead the team to those goals.

"Strive for the University of Maryland to live up to the expectations of student-athletes. They chose Maryland because of the academic and athletic arena that we offer.

"I am also determined to meet their individual goals through our program."

What are your goals for the 1995 team?

"To compete. To recognize every opportunity (in the classroom or on the playing field) as a new, challenging possibility. I have always put more emphasis on the moment and the process toward our goals than the outcome. I want to WIN, but winning is in seconds and it can be defined as What's Important Now."

Why are academics so important to your program?

"Academics are really the only reason I get to work with such great athletes. That is why the players are here. In fact, that is why I am here. Its challenging for me to instill personal growth, commitment and organizational skills for them to be successful in their grades and opportunities after Maryland."

What are your feelings on this team? Their personality? Their aspirations?

"I really feel close to this group (the players and the staff). I honestly can't wait to see them not because of hockey but because of them as people. They (the players) are very respectful, intelligent and committed. They have all of the tools individually and as a group for the staff to approach every practice and game as exciting and fun. There's nothing better than laughing, and we have evolved this spring into a highly competitive and fun team."

"In terms of aspirations, they want to keep the tradition of hockey success alive and make a new statement of their own."

Why would you choose Maryland if you were a student-athlete?

"From what I hear from the athletes, it comes down to freedom. It seems as if the environment is intellectual, diverse, open, confronting and very life-like. Academically, Maryland has top colleges in Business, Engineering, Journalism, Architecture, Biology and Education. There is complete equity, which breeds self-esteem."

How would you characterize your coaching style?

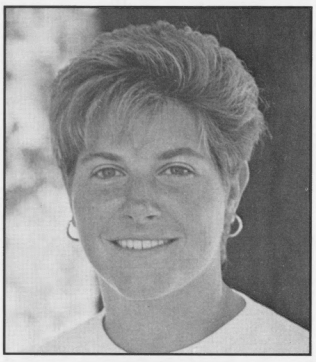
"Your style can depend on the group you are working with. What is comfortable for me is more of a non-authoritarian approach to instill problem solving and self-reliance in the players through hockey. A lot of our drills are built around this idea of reacting to the situation and everyone has a role somehow. When the team is in shape, it works great. I guess I have become a master student of the game at different levels, but honestly, the collegiate environment is so positive."

How has your Friends of Maryland Field Hockey group become a part of your program?

"They were originally developed in 1991, when we organized a trip to Holland. It went so well that the parents, alumni, friends and supporters wanted to stay in touch. They receive schedules, newsletters, information and it has really evolved into a great group. They contribute yearly through a goal-athon which is organized through the hockey staff."

How does your staff contribute to your winning record?

"I believe that the coaching personnel are as important as the athletes you chose. I spend a lot of time researching and interviewing potential assistants before they come here. We have had Christy Morgan (now the head coach at James Madison) and Missy Sanders (now the head coach at Virginia) to name a few. The staff now is great, Michele Murphy (just recently married) is exceptional. She was an All-American goalie at Penn State and a U.S. squad player. In my occasional absences with the U.S. team, she is more than able to handle the program. She is the best."



Michele Murphy

Assistant Coach

Michele Murphy begins her second season as the full-time assistant coach and her third year with the Maryland program.

A 1992 graduate of Penn State University (where she earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in speech communication), Murphy played goalie for the Nittany Lions field hockey team from 1988 to 1991. With Murphy in goal, Penn State qualified for the national semifinals during her junior and senior year, and in 1991, she was named to the NCAA All-Tournament team.

In addition to breaking the Nittany Lions' record for career shutouts (39.5), Murphy was named Academic All-American in 1990 (second team) and 1991 (first team).

Murphy was a National Team member in December of 1991, but her playing career ended when she suffered a broken leg shortly thereafter. Following graduation, she helped coached the Nittany Lions in the fall of 1992.

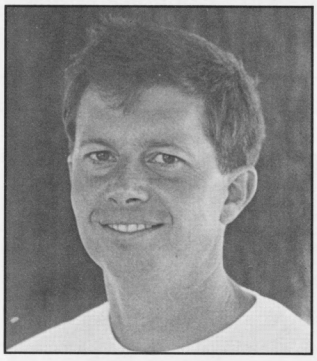
The following fall, Murphy arrived at Maryland and was the Terps' head goalie coach. Two years later, she continues to work with the goalies, as well as the defensive skills and techniques of the team.

"It is both an honor and a pleasure to be a part of Maryland's winning tradition. I firmly believe that the opportunities this institution provides the student-athletes are limitless. I look forward to being part of Maryland's commitment to excellence."

Off the field, Murphy has served as the academic proctor for the Start Fast program at Maryland (a tutoring program for students).

Outside of Maryland, Murphy has also been the head goalie coach for the Futures Program the past three years, and this past year, she was the United States under-21 goalkeepers coach at the 1995 Olympic Festival in Boulder, Colorado.

This past June 8, she was married to Bill Murphy.



Steve Simpson

Assistant Coach

Steve Simpson begins his first season as an assistant field hockey coach with the Maryland program.

A 1988 Maryland graduate (where he earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in general studies), Simpson has had extensive playing, coaching and officiating experience in field hockey since arriving in the United States from England back in 1977.

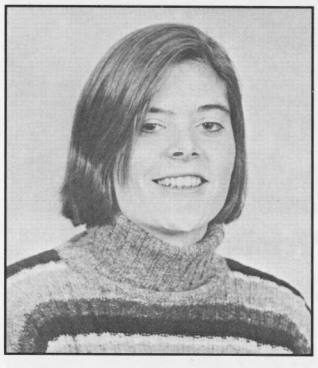
From 1977-80, Simpson was a member of the men's Junior National team, and in 1981, he was an alternate for the National team. During his playing career, Simpson competed in the Olympic Festivals of 1979, 1981, 1982 and 1983.

Since he retired from playing field hockey, Simpson continues to be involved with the sport, both as an official and a coach.

In 1985, Simpson became an umpire for the International organization body (F.I.H.) and in the ensuing decade, he has officiated over 140 games involving national teams and has gone on numerous tours with the men's National team. The 1995 Olympic Festival marks the sixth time he has been selected as an umpire during the tournament.

As a coach, Simpson has been extensively involved with the Futures Program. He has been the coach of the Chesapeake under-18 team the past four years, and the Coaching Director of the Chesapeake region (Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia).

In addition, Simpson also coaches the Washington Wolves, a club team that trains to play in the Indoor National Tournament as well as outdoor tournaments against adult club teams.



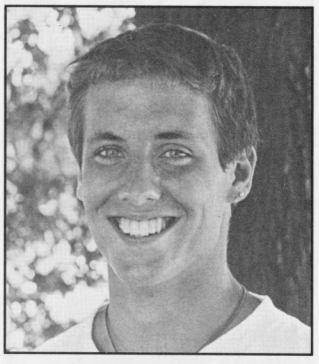
Laura Harmon

Assistant Coach

Having just graduated from the University of Maryland in May (with a degree in Elementary Education), Laura Harmon begins her first year on the Terps' coaching staff.

She is no stranger to the Maryland field hockey program, having been a three-time All American (1992-94) and a starter on the 1993 National Championship team. In addition, Harmon was a three time All-American lacrosse player for the Terps, who captured the 1992 and 1995 National Championship.

Harmon's excellence at Maryland was also evident in the classroom, as she was named an ACC Scholar Athlete in both the 1993-94 and 1994-95 academic years. She was also honored by the University of Maryland with the Charles H. Beebe, Jr. Award, which is given to the senior female who has shown excellence in scholarship and athletics while lettering in her sport.



Jeremy Cook

Volunteer Assistant Coach

Jeremy Cook returns to the Terps' coaching staff for his third season as a volunteer assistant coach. He is a member of the U.S. under-21 team and the U.S. men's national squad.

THE UNIVERSITY AT COLLEGE PARK — Choosing Quality

These are great days at the University of Maryland at College Park. The university, through an act of the state legislature, has been designated officially as the state's flagship campus with a mandate to become one of the nation's leading public universities. The effect of the mandate is for individuals from all corners of the university to aspire toward excellence, to think great thoughts and to become immersed in an educational enterprise of the highest caliber. There is an unmistakable momentum for change and a sense of heightened expectation at College Park- Maryland is choosing quality.

The faculty has enthusiastically endorsed a new general education program that began in the fall of 1990. It is a blueprint for comprehensive changes in the undergraduate experience at Maryland. The campus is reducing its undergraduate enrollment, improving the ratio between faculty and students, raising admissions standards, revamping the University Honors Program, strengthening the advising system, supporting expanded undergraduate research and encouraging innovations in teaching.

A new language house has opened in which student residents have direct satellite access to foreign language television broadcasts from the USSR, Latin America, Italy and Japan, and where, in a total immersion setting, residents have pledged to speak their chosen language at all times. A new honors house, a stimulating living and learning center for undergraduates taking part in the University Honors Program, opened in 1992. An international house, a living-learning environment that will meet the growing needs of the diverse international population on campus, opened in 1991 as the Dorchester House.

We invite you to take a closer look at the University of Maryland, its extensive academic programs, faculty, research facilities, student activities, support services, resources and opportunities. See for yourself the number of different ways in which Maryland is choosing quality.

Locale

The state of Maryland is unrivaled in its scenic beauty, its rich heritage, and its wealth of educational, recreational, and cultural opportunities. From the mountain passes of Garrett County in the West, to the sand dunes of Assateague Island on the Eastern Shore, and the cosmopolitan excitement of Baltimore and Washington, D.C., there is an unparalleled variety of experiences and resources available to students at the University.

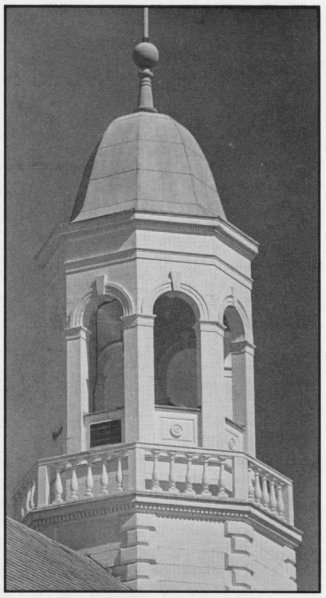
Nine miles from the nation's capital, the University of Maryland at College Park is within easy reach of the country's best research facilities. The Library of Congress, the National Archives, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Libraries of Agriculture and Medicine are among the many unique resources in the area.

In addition to traditional scholarly resources, the campus is surrounded by the dynamic cultural opportunities that only a major metropolitan area can provide. The Kennedy Center alone houses the National Symphony Orchestra, five performance stages, an opera company, and the American Film Institute. In Baltimore, one of the great ports of the world, a recent and remarkable renaissance has added the glistening touch of office towers and hotels to the quaint shops and ethnic restaurants of its many colorful neighborhoods. Harborplace and the National Aquarium anchor the Inner Harbor, which has become a cultural magnet for thousands of tourists each year.

The Chesapeake Bay accounts for nearly 20 percent of Maryland's acreage, and is a focal point for the serious study of estuarine ecology as well as a recreational treasure. It is the source of Maryland's famed crabs and other seafood specialties, and a refuge for many species of water fowl.

Not far from any point in the state is evidence of the burgeoning development which has made Maryland a model for economic growth and fiscal health. High tech, engineering, and service industries thrive in proximity to the campus, offering a wide spectrum of opportunities for work study or internships for students and career choices for graduates.

The University of Maryland at College Park, as the flagship campus of the state's higher education system, is a vital part of Maryland's current prosperity and its vision for the future. For students here, the state offers a bounteous extension to the campus' own wealth of opportunity.



Choosing by the numbers

3 miles are all that separate a College Park student from Washington, D.C. The Washington monument is less than 10 miles away.

24 flavors of our own homemade ice cream, from our own home-grown cows, are available at the Campus Dairy in the Turner Building on Route 1 next to the Visitor Center.

25 locations on campus provide 446 PCs, plus CAD terminals and other computer-driven tools for study or research.

35 miles separate the College Park student from Baltimore and the Inner Harbor, one of the great riverfronts in the world.

78 RPM (rubs per minute) is the record high for one of College Park's oldest traditions. It happens during exams, and before football games, when hopeful students give Testudo and his Byrd Stadium twin rubs for good luck.

113 undergraduate majors are available at College Park.

186 stately columns grace the Georgian architecture of our major buildings, among them 40 residence halls providing rooms, suites, or apartments for 8,000 campus residents.

265 student organizations are registered on campus of which all students can participate.

325 classrooms and laboratories set the stage for learning; courses in 110 different major fields of study offer choices and specializations for every interest.

480 student-athletes participate at the NCAA level at College Park. There were 307 men and 173 women who participated at Maryland in 1993-94.

$611 million was the University's operating budget in 1993-94; included was financial aid for some 15,136 students.

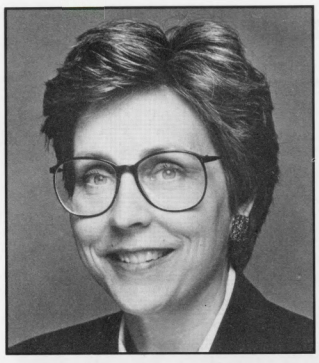
1589 acres of trees, malls, and quiet corners make this campus a beautiful retreat and a self-contained city. With 300 buildings, four theatres, nine restaurants, banks, shops and recreation facilities, the College Park campus is a lively and cosmopolitan community.

8,388 graduate students attended Maryland in 1993-94.

21,781 undergraduates attended Maryland in 1993-94. Undergraduate enrollment was reduced 20% over the past five years to allow College Park to fill its role as the flagship University of the State of Maryland.

3,000,000 books, journals and magazines support students and research in College Park's library system.

4,600,000 items are on microfilm format in the campus libraries.



Deborah A. Yow

She knows about getting things done

Deborah A. Yow, whose tenure as Athletic Director at St. Louis University was marked by extraordinary academic and competitive achievement, was named to direct the athletic program at the University of Maryland by President William E. Kirwan on August 15, 1994.

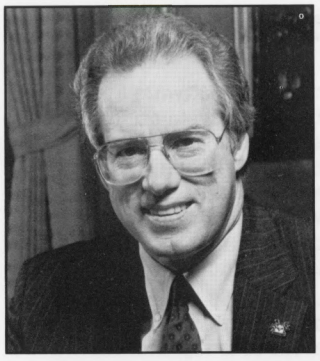
Yow's energetic presence at Maryland produced a dynamic first year. Her effective reorganization of the budget process allowed a departmental deficit to be slashed dramatically. For the first time in 11 years, the athletics department budget finished in the black. She also reorganized development and marketing departments, giving Maryland a financial outreach program with which to accomplish its goals. An accentuation of academics insures continued improvement in graduation rates and academics.

Yow oversees a massive refurbishing program of facilities. Byrd Stadium's current $20 million in construction is just one of many projects that are taking place, or which are planned, at Maryland.

Along with the administrative success have come competitive successes. The most fans in school history watched the men's basketball team again reach the Final 16 of the NCAA Tournament, men's soccer qualified for its first NCAA appearance in eight years, and men's and women's lacrosse qualified for the NCAA semi-finals in each sport, with the women winning the national championship.

Yow's experience allowed her to step-in at Maryland at the busiest time of the year — just when the 24-sport program and school year were getting underway. She knew about getting things done. At St. Louis, she led the effort which enabled the university to achieve a 92% graduation rate for student athletes. She increased significantly the marketing, promotion and corporate sponsorship of St. Louis' athletic program. In her last year, the Billikens ranked second only to national champion Arkansas among all NCAA schools in percentage increase of men's basketball attendance.

Prior to becoming an athletic director, the indomitable Yow had a highly successful career as a basketball coach. She is the first coach in NCAA history to lead previously unranked teams at three different conferences to top 20 rankings, and one of only 12 in the NCAA Division I category. She is married to Dr. William W. Bowden, III.



Dr. William E. Kirwan

University President

"We are extremely proud of our field hockey team not only for their success on the playing field but also for their outstanding work in the classroom."

Dr. Suzanne Tyler

Senior Associate Athletic Director

Dr. Suzanne Tyler is at the heart of Maryland athletics. Her 19-year association with the program has seen her serve the department in every fashion imaginable. From coach to administrator to confidante of student-athletes, Tyler envelopes herself in red and white.

When Maryland needed an interim athletic director in 1990 to direct its 23-sport intercollegiate athletic program, Tyler answered the call. She served in that capacity until the arrival of Andy Geiger.

Tyler's success has been extraordinary on both the athletic and academic levels. She is one of only a handful of coaches in history to win NCAA championships in two sports - lacrosse in 1981 and 1986 and field hockey in 1987. Tyler performed double duty for the department in 1990. While serving as the chief athletic department administrator, she led the Terps' women's lacrosse team to the national championship game. She was named lacrosse National Coach of the Year in 1984 and 1986.

Her career reaches in to the academic realm, as well. She has earned honors in each stage of her academic career - as an undergraduate at Northeastern in 1969, in receiving her master's from Penn State in 1972 and her Ph.D. from Maryland in 1986.

Tyler and her husband, Dennis Casey, reside in Beltsville, Md. with their three-year-old son Andrew, and their two-year-old daughter, Alexis.

"It is with great expectation that we approach the upcoming season. An exceptional group of newcomers join a much improved team that will be fun to watch."

Academic Support Unit

A successful student almost always equates to a successful athlete. The commitment to academic excellence requires discipline, dedication and motivation. These are the same characteristics needed for an athlete to excel on the field.

The University of Maryland emphasizes the importance of academics in the student-athletes' lives on campus. Striving for success in both the classroom as well as on the field, the athletic department created a program intended to offer both personal and academic development to student-athletes, the Academic Support Unit.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston, educator and clinical psychologist, is the Director of Athletic Student Services. She oversees the student-athletes' educational well-being by her management of the Academic Support Unit. She is assisted by Liz Freidman, John Bowman and Don Pearman.

Friedman works directly with the Terp field hockey team as its academic coordinator to ensure their success in the classroom. Friedman begins her fourth year as a full-time employee in the athletic department after four years of assisting on a part time basis in the ASU. She is a graduate of College Park and a native of Rockville, MD.

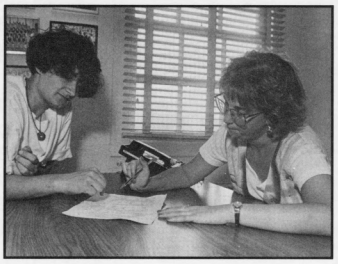
In addition to individual academic counseling, each member of the ASU serves the department in other capacities. The staff operates a technological computer room, where student-athletes gain hands-on experience with computer software and hardware systems. The ASU also runs a comprehensive bookroom in which student-athletes can find various text books they will utilize during their undergraduate years.

Over 100 tutors in the ASU assist student-athletes in all areas of study. Student-athletes receive one on one training in any class necessary.

The Academic Support Unit has a positive effect on the athletes and plays an important role in University of Maryland athletics.

ASU offers a variety of programs which include:

- Personal academic assessment.
- Academic advising and counseling.
- Supervised study.
- Learning and study skill programs.
- Group and individual tutoring.
- Computer training and usage.
- Career mentor.
- Summer internships.



Liz Friedman points former field hockey goalkeeper Irene Horvat in the right direction.

"The field hockey players are good, solid students who are able to balance academics and athletics. They are a group of initiators and self-motivators. When they know what has to get done, they do it. Their positive attitudes in the classroom directly correlate to their spirit on the playing field."

— Liz Friedman
Assistant Director of Athletic Student Services

Strength and Conditioning

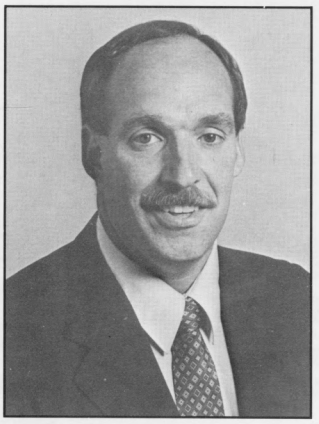
Before the field hockey team can compete at its finest, the strength and conditioning staff prepares the athletes for game day. Proper training in the offseason leads to top performances by individuals and winning records for the team as a whole. The Terrapins utilize the most innovative equipment in strength training with access to a state-of-the-art weight room. This new technology ensures that the athletes are in prime condition to enter competition.

Dwight Galt heads the strength and conditioning staff and runs his office out of the spacious, technological football complex.

Galt has been a member of the Maryland strength and conditioning staff for several years and works primarily with the football team.

Galt was an assistant strength coach at Maryland in 1984 and 1985 and rejoined the staff prior to the 1989 football season. During his career, he has worked extensively with the Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League and was the director of Frank Costello's Elite Training Center for several years.

A graduate of Maryland, Galt received his Bachelor of Science degree in business and management in 1983. He earned his Master's of Science in exercise physiology from Maryland in 1989.



Dwight Galt

Galt, 36, and his wife Mary Janice have four children.

The newest member of the strength and conditioning staff, Assistant Coach Lea Hankey, works closely with the field hockey team to guarantee a successful program. Hankey received a bachelor's degree in kinesiological sciences from Maryland in 1990. She earned a master's degree in sports psychology at College Park in 1993, featuring a master's project entitled The Effects of Strength Training vs. Aerobic Conditioning on the Self-Concept of Females.

Hankey, a competitive swimmer in high school, has served as an aerobics and fitness instructor for nearly a decade. She will be assisting in the strength and conditioning duties for Maryland's 24 varsity sports.
